

Office of Disease Prevention and Health Promotion

Publications List

The Office of Disease Prevention and Health Promotion (ODPHP) in the U.S. Public Health Service stimulates and coordinates efforts in both the public and private sectors to reduce the risk of disease and early death and to promote good health. Materials listed here are publications that the ODPHP has sponsored or co-sponsored and include information for the general public, reports and papers for health professionals and policymakers, proceedings of conferences, and more.

The publications are arranged alphabetically under nine broad categories:

- Federal Programs and Policies
- ODPHP Monograph Series
- Community Health Promotion Programs
- School Health Programs
- Worksite Health Promotion Programs
- Nutrition
- Professional Education
- Educational Materials
- Miscellaneous

An index and order form follow the listings. New publications are designated.

Single copies of some of these publications are available for a minimal handling fee from the ODPHP National Health Information Center (ONHIC) (see SOURCES, page 5). Some publications, as noted, are for sale by the Government Printing Office and by other sources. Documents available from other organizations should be ordered directly from the sources given at the end of each annotation. Publications are available only as long as supplies last, and prices are subject to change. The ONHIC handling fees are valid through December 1987.
